Association Cheval Arabe Breizh (Brittany Arabian Horse Association)

ACA Breizh is a legally-registered and non-profit making association which main purposes are :

- to advertise and promote the Pure Bred Arabian horses in Brittany by organizing shows, events, and training courses in order to encourage breeding, advertising, and using Arabian horses.
- to represent the interests of Brittany's horse breeders, riders, and users of Pure Bred Arabian horses to the ACA France association.

In the past, ACA Breizh's active members have already organized events promoting the Arabian horses as, for example, In-Hand Championships, D-Show in 2008 at La Prévalaye and in 2009 at Lamballe, as well as C nat. and D regional shows in 2010 at Lamballe.

On 23 & 24 July 2011, ACA Breizh organizes a D regional show on Saturday and, first time ever in Brittany, ECAHO Championships, C int.-Show on Saturday and Sunday at Lamballe state stud.

This year, with the support of ACA France and the CPCAS, ridden classes and a dressage show will also be offered to the participants. These sports events which aim at promoting the Pure Bred Arabians under saddle also emphasize the beauty of those horses and their complicity with the rider.

During this celebration of the Pure Bred Arabian horse, many activities will be available.

- Exhibition of the works of painter Jeanne Saint Chéron,
- Cocktail and dinner on Saturday evening,
- Stallion parade,
- Breton catering on-the-spot.

We hope that this brand new event in Brittany will captivate your full attention and we are entirely at your disposal for any further information.

L'Association Cheval Arabe France (France Arabian Horse Association)

ACA France is the only official national representative of the Arabian breed approved by the French ministry of agriculture.

ACA aims at keeping the purity of the Arabian blood intact by contributing to the selection of Arabian horses, studying the breed, and introducing it to the public. The association also tries to promote its breeding, to unite the breeders, users, and lovers of Arabian horses, to advertise the Arabian horse, and to take an interest in a general way in every matter concerning the breed.

ACA Nationale brings together:

- breeders of horses of all breeds specializing in one sport, endurance, which breeding programme is managed by the association,
- breeders of Pure Bred Arabians who apply themselves to breeding these horses according to the Arabian breed criteria and who open their production to the whole of the Olympic sports as well as the In-Hand shows, an essential showcase for the promotion of Pure Bred Arabian horses.

Comité de Pilotage du Cheval Arabe de Sport (Sports Arabian Horse Management Comity)

The CPCAS was created in 2010 in order to promote the sports Arabian horse and, with the support of regional associations, it offers 4 regional Championships open to Pure Bred Arabians, 17 Ridden Classes, a CPCAS Championship, and the French Sport Arabian horse Championships final which will take place on 2, 3 & 4 September, 2011, at the Stade Equestre du Sichon (Sichon equestrian stadium) in Vichy.

Six disciplines are selected: show jumping, dressage, western pleasure, trail, reining, and ridden classes.

In-Hand shows

The Pure Bred Arabian horse stands out because of the elegance beyond compare of his conformation. With his prominent eye, concave nose, large nostrils, high-carried tail, and skin of incredible delicacy, he is the species' archetype, the ideal horse. Many painters such as Chassériau, Delacroix, Géricault, Gros, etc, were fascinated by his remarkable body. As a natural result, Arabian horses have been trained for In-Hand shows based on the American system.

These competitions gather together horses in different sex and age groups which are assessed according to five criteria:

1. The type
2. The head and neck
3. The body
4. The movement
5. The legs

We assess the stylishness of the head, the body's general harmony, the delicacy of the skin, the quality of the legs, and the lightness and expressiveness of the movement.

In Showing classes, the judges do not know the origins of the exhibits.

The different classes will be split as follows: 3 junior classes for 1, 2, and 3 year-old, 2 senior classes for horses aged 4 to 6, and 7 year-old and over (the way of splitting classes can vary depending on the type of show).

Then the male and female Junior Championship and Senior Championship take place, bringing together the first and second prize winners of each class.

There are several levels of competition. The regional competitions called D-Shows, the C national and international Shows, then the B and A Shows, and finally Title Shows such as the European Championships, the All Nation Cup, and the World Championships which take place in Paris every year.

At a certain level upward, horses are presented at the stand which is a characteristic pose of the Showing horse highlighting the topline, poll, and crest and its attachment to the head. Handlers work on presenting each horse in a posture which will bring out at best its anatomical qualities.

Presentation consists in showing a free and very expressive horse able to stand at any time and stay still and focused on its handler for several minutes.

The Arabian horse is a wonderful actor. As a Showing horse "par excellence", he is very exuberant and expresses himself all the better knowing precisely that the audience expects him to do so. The great success encountered by the big events dedicated to him, especially the In-Hand World Championships in France which draws each year an ever-increasing number of spectators, is the best proof of it.

The current passion for the Pure Bred Arabian horse is not a mere result of coincidences. Born in the heart of the desert and carved by the Southern wind, it is a precious model which has been refined by Bedouin hands like a desert rose to be offered to the riders of today.
